

To my dearest,
Miles

Happy 5th Monthsary Baby

HAPPY 5TH MONTHSARY BABY!!! Dapat naka written letter ni eh... kaso kay gin himo kuto ang “open gift” te ndi ko kabalo paano I insert ang letter... so gin type-written ko nalang para isahanay, sulatan ta man ka japon baby hehe.

Anyways, I think I fell in love with you since our 1st YE weekend journey, maybe even before that; when it was our first YE camp – maybe it was just a clueless thought that sprung into my mind or it was the catalyst, the reason why I ultimately felt that way towards you. It took me a long while to face it, and honestly, it took a lot of persuasion from others for me to even believe what I felt, because to be honest I tried to forget that feeling. I never knew why, or for what reason I felt that way. After my long pause from YE as well as after my “self-realization” I let myself see YOU.

How easy it is for you to be yourself despite carrying all the weight of guilt and burden, all the things that brought you down and still being the best, and maybe just you – you that no one sees that made me want you more.

“I’d never get tired of knowing you.” Unspoken, yet I knew. During those moments, I knew I love you.

After YE26, we finally got to hang around. Me even attending your birthday, I think it was that point when Van and others really pushed me. At that point I didn't deny it anymore, to myself at least.

Until I finally decided to confess...

August 11, 2025 – 9:00 PM (GMT+8)

I didn't even know what to say – but I said it, “Gusto ta ka.” My mind didn't even try to think. Heartstrings that made its own voices. Maybe because of the tense moment, even when my legs already felt so numb because you wouldn't even look at me, I couldn't feel pain at all; I was just so into you.

After my persistence you finally looked at me, maybe just for a second; but you did. Even if you covered my eyes – I'll still say it even if I can't see your pretty face. I love you.

October 25, 2025 – 7:30PM (GMT+8)

Was it wrong for me to thirst your kiss?

It was a night when the moon was smiling. It was when my soul intertwined with yours. How it etched its thorns into my heart and made it so I could never let go of you. The best kind of love is the kind that awakens the soul – something that plants fire in the heart; that's what you gave to me, and what I hope to give to you.

I, by no means, would forget that feeling. You had shown me the most fragile and silliest qualities you have. Even if you show me every quality you think I would hate.

Nonetheless, I couldn't care less...

Because I'm with you, this whole world makes sense. And when I'm not with you, I see that your world is so far from mine.

And 5 months passed...

In just a swift heartbeat, 5 months would pass...
From people not knowing what was happening between us to people surrounding us, making our relationship stronger. And it felt like home is whenever I'm with her.

December 18, 2025 - 10:13 AM (GMT+8)

"I Love You"

You said it. And you made me yours; you finally answered me. And the best part? I love you the way I do.
Not the way they do or the way others do. I love you how I thought how to. And each day, you teach me how to love you even better.

I love you, baby. The purest and the surest I've ever been. I love you not for what you can do, or whoever you try to be - I love the person who cries when she doesn't get what she wants, when she knows how to love me so much,
I love the person you are.

It's so easy to love you, like I could do it forever.

July 9, 2007 – 12:02PM (GMT+8)

The love of my life was born.

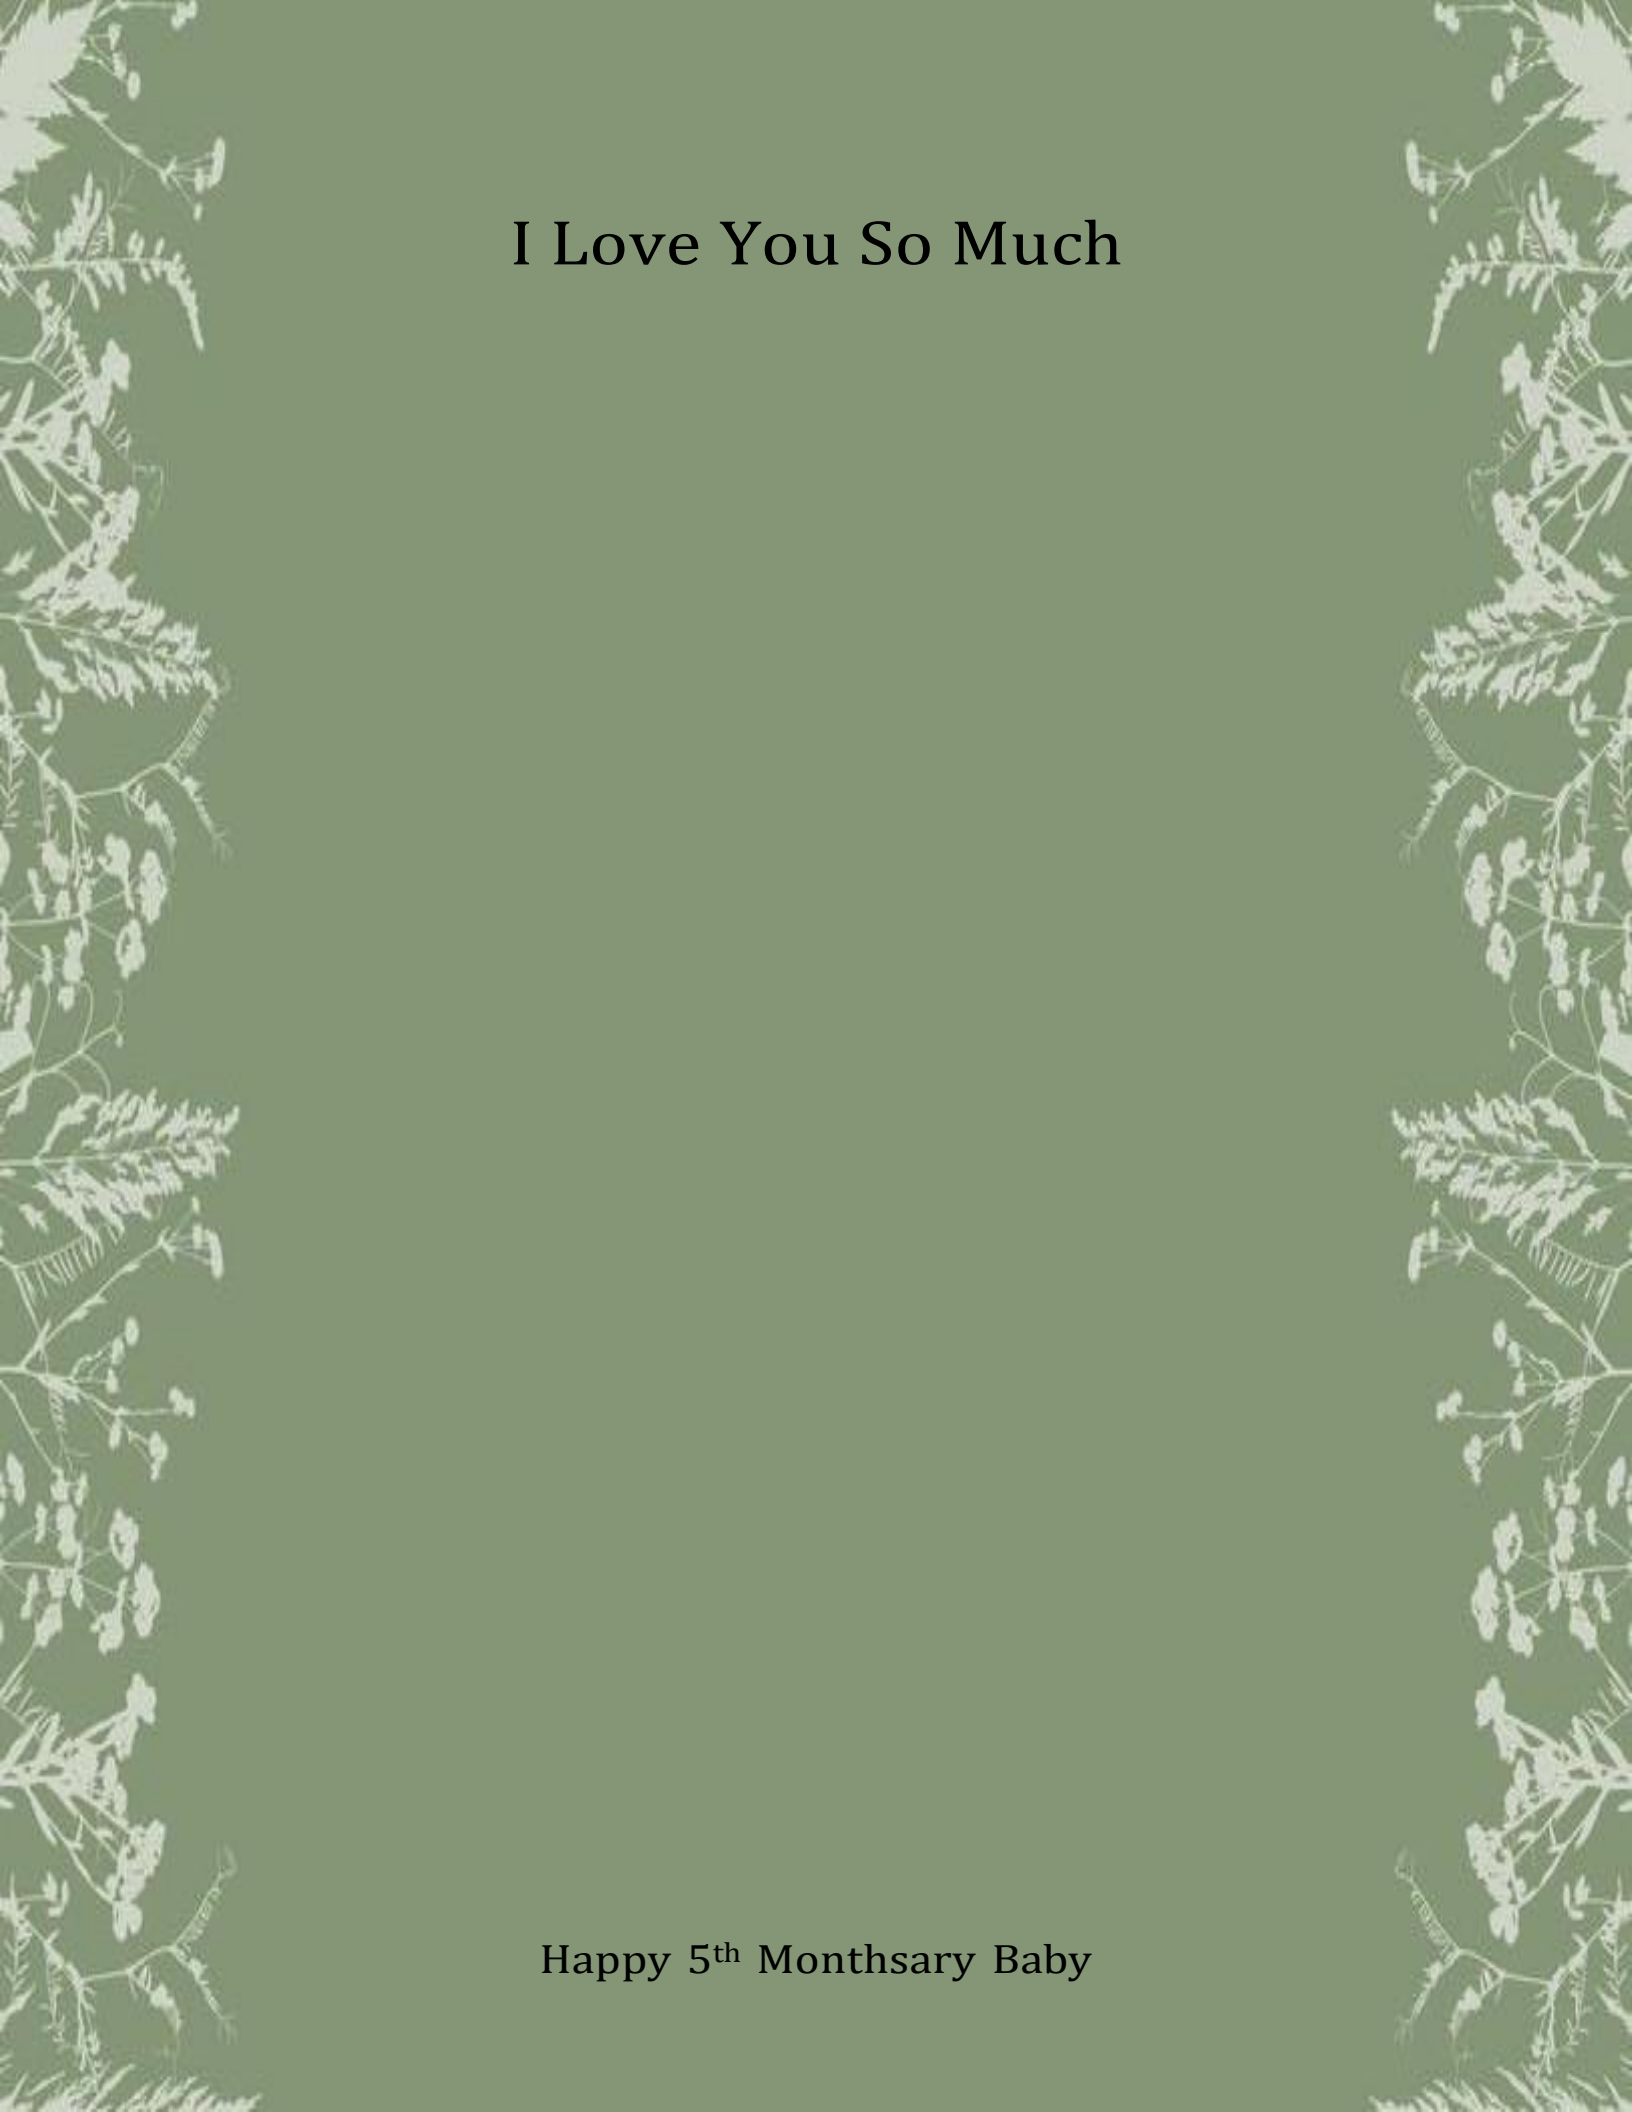

She's an ordinary girl, a daddy's girl. But that's what you'd think if you don't know her.

She had always been the girl in her family to be sacrificed. Her moms verbal-punching-bag; making it her fault all over again, the daughter who was too strong for her own good. She doesn't even understand herself half of the time. She doesn't even feel satisfied with herself, She's scared of what people think of her, She thinks she's alone – happiest when away from home, She gets overwhelmed by her emotions too easily; keeping it to herself most of the time, She breaks down; but never gives up on her dreams, She's the eldest daughter... My poor baby.

I'm so proud of her.

I'm so sure of her.

I love her.

I Love You So Much

Happy 5th Monthsary Baby